INCIDENTS IN HARLEM.

THE Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY AND THE CHARITY BALL.

The twenty-fift's anniversary of the Harlem branch f the Young Men's Christian Association of New-York City, which was held in the building of the assoclation, No. 5 West One-hundred and twenty-fifth-st., Monday evening, brought many people to the building who had never been there before and who were greatly surprised at the extent of the work done by this organization. The occasion was taken to inspect the outlding from the splendidly equipped gymnasium, swimming bath and dresdag-rooms in the basement the large half and meeting rooms in the floors above. The annual report of the secretary of the association, Frank G. Banister, showed that it was rapidly increasing in membership, and that it was constantly tecking to extend its scope of usefulness. The membership now is considerably over a thousand, which is an increase of two hundred over that of the New departments are continually being added, and it is expected that the year 1803 will witness the most rapid strifes in the history of the asso ciation. The fee of entrance and membership to this association is $10 a year, which includes the use of the gynfnasium with a locker for clothing, the use of the parlors, the reading room with its many files of papers, the library and many other privileges conted with the association.

An entertainment was given on Monday evening in the hall of the association in which the work of the essociation for the year 1892 was outlined. The officers of this branch are William H. Sage, chairman; Josiab Lombard, vice-chairman; James P. Gallagher, recording secretary; Charles E. Hope, treasurer, and Frank G. Banister, secretary. The condition of the Mott Haven Canal, a mixture of sewer and waterway, has been considered by the Board of Health, and protests against its filthy condition were made at a recent meeting by business men who have their yards or offices fronting the canal. Most of the citizens who have no business interests connected with the canal are in favor of filling it up. The owners of places fronting the canal believe, how ever, that it can be cleaned out and kept in a fair condition of cleanliness by proper efforts on the part of the Health Board. There is a considerable num Union Church (Disciples). The entertainment will ber of canal boats and small vessels which use the canal, but as the growth of the city is making the doubtedly be a constantly greater menace to the health of the residents. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A visitor to the Navy Yard to working hours three or four months ago might have been reminded of to take Pay master sollivan's place of the essant toll, of the ever-continuing lator, bustle and noise of a large city; but a visitor at the present time might be reminded of the celebrated being Hollow, not by any resemblance in appearance of natural surroundings, but by the general spirit on the Pacific Coast, or that there was excitement on the Paci

If the bill recently introduced in the Senate, providing for enlisted men in the Navy the privilege purchasing discharges from the service, should be ome a law, it will no doubt tend to lessen the num per of descritors. The same law has existed for the soldiers of the Army for some years, and the principle of an honorable way out of the service being furnished to those who desire to quit it, many have proferred the purchase system to the disgrace of describing and the risk attending it. The price of discharge is regulated by the cost of enlisting, transporting and training a recruit, with deductions according to the ount of service he has already given, and thus the Government indemnifies Itself for its pecuciary losses The purchase of discharge system also avoids to some extent the demoralization produced by desertions, and it takes away the sense of hopeless confinement in the service for a long term, and at the expense of the Government for the keeping of a prisoner. The will no doubt be many desertions even under the new law, partly because the men who are dis-attached for a discharge, and prefer to run the risk of erres and punishment for desertion, and partly because no disfharge is allowed until after the first year of service; but the system has worked well in the Army and no doubt will remove to great extent the demoralization produced by desertions. A meeting of the members of the cou lety of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, was held at No. 12 West Thirty-first et. on Tuesday, when | hotics a permanent organization was effected, a constitution nd by laws adopted, and the following elected officers President, Clement A. Griscom, president of the Inter President, Clement A. Olson, vice presidents, Commonal Navigation Company; vice presidents, Commodore Theodore D. Wilson, Chief of the Bureau of Com struction of the Navy; Charles H. Cramp. of Cram Sons; Commodore George W. Melville, Chief of the inread of Engineering of the Navy; George W. Quin tard, Irving M. Scott, of San Francisco; Francis A. Walker, president of the Massischusetts Institute of Technology; William H. Webb, of New-York; secretary, other Washington L. Capps, of the Navy executive committee, Bowles, Commodore Charles H. Loring, H. T. Ganse ex-Naval Constructor Lewis Nixon, and Harrington Putnam. The object of the association is to promote the art of shiphulding and construction of steam engineering in all its branches, both commercial at citiation of Naval Architects in England, and now has a membership of about 400, many of whom are officers of the Construction and Engineer Corps of the Navy the fleet marine officer of the North Atlantic Squad ren, for duty at the Portsmouth Navy Yard after his restoration to duty following the setting aside of the entence of a court martial by Secretar, Tracy, was not a surprise to him or to other officers. Hi place on the Chiengo has been taken by Captain W F. Spicer, who received his orders of detachment from he marine barracks on Friday. Captain Meeker wa made second lieutenant of marines on June 24, 1862 but served in the Navy several years before that At the beginning of the Civil War he was made secretary to Admiral Goldsborough, and was with that officer's feet at the discribariting of Burnside's command at New-Berne, N. C. Just before the dis-embarking commenced a landing force of 150 sallorcarrying small arms and howitzers, was sent or shore. Meeker accompanied the command, which took up a position well back of the beach, and while holding this post the command was attacked by the enemy in large force. The enemy were really push-ing forward to check the funding of flurnside's forces but were brought to a sudden stop by the howitzer battery of the sailors. The commander of the naval force signalled for reinforcements, and was ordered to hold his post to the last man. When Burnside's troops reached the post which the sailors held so well, only three of them were found alive, and Young Meeker was one of these. He was commended to the Navy Department for his bravery, and was com-missioned a second fleutement from that day. He mmanded a battalion of marines in the attack or Morn's and Folly Islands, S. C., in 1863, and was at the capture of Fort Wagner, after which he was promoted to be first Bentenant. He was brevered a captain on January 14, 1865, for gallant and meritorious conduct at the capture of Fort Fisher, out was not promoted to that grade until a vacane occurred on November 17, 1877. Following the decision in Captala Meeker's case the Navy Department yesterday Issued an order cal culated to discipline Paymaster John Clyde Sullivan for a violation of one of the specific laws against criticising the acts of his Government or his superior officer. Paymaster sullivan, when attached to the Mohlean, in the Pacific in October last, was reported the State Department by the United States Consulat Victoria for public utterances in connection with the Behring Sea controversy. When the Mohlcan reached Scattle several of the newspapers contained interviews of Paymaster Sullivan on the operations of the vessel in Behring Sea and on the Behring Sea question generally. In all of these interviews be was represented as having shown no sympathy with the contentions raised by the United States. The remarks that were considered particularly offensive were published in "The Scattle Post-Intelligencer," follows: "We haven't the shodow of a right declare Behring Sea a closed sea, and we shall be knocked out entirely by the International Commi I have read everything I could get my hands on apo the subject, and am something of a lawyer as well as sallor, and I believe Blaine's contention is all wrong, and the United States will have to pay double for the work we have been deing in the Behring Sea." The Victorian and Canadian papers copied Paymaster sullivan's interviews with intense satisfaction, and made great capital out of them. This added to the feeling already intensified in the State and Navy Departments, and Paymaster Sullivan was called upon that he made the statements as published. It is only cago might be taken as exceptions to tails statement, but this has been going on so long and is of such a character, that it is practically the regular routine work. The force of men has been much reduced, and the morning mails from Washington do not bring many letters. So, the Navy Yard is lying in a sort of comatose condition, waiting for warm weather to come, and, Micawber-like, for "something to turn up."

The Destrover, for firing sub-marine torpedoes, is still in the Navy Yard, and she probably will be there for about a menth and perhaps two months longer before she starts for Newport. Some delay has been caused by the fact that the torpedo nets, which are to be tested when the vessel goes to Newport, were not ready, and, besides this, the harbor at Newport is worse than the New-York harbor, harbor at Newport is worse than the New-York harbor at Secand and the tested of the tested, and that vessels from attacks by submarine torpedoes. It is said that nets after the foreign pattern and also after an American pattern are to be tested, and that on the results of the test will depend the selection by the Navy Department of a type of net to be used on the vessels for the United States Navy. Foreign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but elign vessels have been supplied with these nets, but the first of the first

TO TAX STREET RAILROAD CORPORATIONS.

After a conference with the heads of the city de partments yesterday, Mayor Boody announced that the Corporati n Council would prepare a bill providing for the taxation of the street railroad corporations of he city, both those in existence and prospective ones, and to define the action to be taken by the city in the granting of future franchises,

Before the Mayor conferred with the heads of departments privately they all listened to the views of Thomas G. Shearman, the Single Tax advocate, avoring the Farquhar bill now before the Legislature which gives the local authorities in cities and counties power to decide whether they will tax real es tate or personal property together, or each alone. He argued that the experience of tax collectors showed the unwisdom of efforts to tax personal property and wear to a great many lies to save a few bundreds of dellars. It was impossible to compel any one to pay personal tax, as there were so many facilities for evading it. Mr. Shearman said that sometimes he evading it. Mr. Shearman said that sometimes he paid a personal tax and sometimes he did not, and when he did it was a gratuity to the city and because it sometimes gave a man a little personal prestige to to it. He also argued in regard to the payment of taxes that in the end they were all paid by personal property invested in real estate. All real estate men favored the abolition of the personal tax. The elevated railroads should not be exempted because the Court of Appeals had decided that they ewied real estate, and that the real estate of stress railroad corporations should be taxed, and franchises sold to the highest blidders. The city authorities did not declare themselves on the Farquhar bill.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PLIMLEY.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte Pilmley, who sho at No. 148 Flatbush-ave. on Thursday, will take place at noon to-day and the burial will be in Greenwood.
